

GOVERNMENT OF PUERTO RICO

Department of Health
Medicaid Program

April 2, 2018

Dear beneficiary:

Due to the emergency caused by the passage of the Hurricanes Irma and Maria, the Department of Health's Medicaid Program has decided to extend the health coverage for an additional year. This only applies to those beneficiaries whose eligibility expired or expires during the months of September 2017 to June 2018. That is, if your eligibility expired or expires at:

September 30, 2017	the new expiration date is:	September 30, 2018
October 31, 2017	the new expiration date is:	October 31, 2018
November 30, 2017	the new expiration date is:	November 30, 2018
December 31, 2017	the new expiration date is:	December 31, 2018
January 31, 2018	the new expiration date is:	January 31, 2019
February 28, 2018	the new expiration date is:	February 28, 2019
March 31, 2018	the new expiration date is:	March 31, 2019
April 30, 2018	the new expiration date is:	April 30, 2019
May 31, 2018	the new expiration date is:	May 31, 2019
June 30, 2018	the new expiration date is:	June 30, 2019

You do not need to go to our office to re-evaluate unless:

- There has been a change in your family nucleus. Some of the changes that need to be reported are when you or one of the members of your family: (1) is pregnant, (2) was pregnant and gave birth or lost the baby, (3) got married, (4) is incarcerated, includes a state or federal jail, a forensic psychiatric hospital or a juvenile institution), (5) has died, (6) moved to the United States or another country.
- You or one of the members of your household has had a decrease in monthly income of 10 percent or more.
- The Program send you an appointment because the needs to clarify some information about you or one of your family household.

Before you or your family member's eligibility expires, you will receive an appointment letter for re-evaluation. We encourage you to visit our website: www.medicaid.pr.gov or call our call center (787) 641-4224 TTY (787) (787) 625-6955, Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. 6:00 a.m. pm, to clarify any doubts or questions that you have.

Sincerely,

Luz E. Cruz-Romero
